

Ten Lines To Change The World

- 1) Now, Adam, I'm going to give you one more chance, and this time tell Eve not to listen to that damned serpent.
- 2) Sorry, Moses, I dropped the stones again. Can't you just tell them to be good?
- 3) You're right, Marcus. Britain isn't worth crossing the Channel for.
- 4) Please inform General Antony, I'd like to agree to his proposals but I'm already pledged to my brother.
- 5) That Barabbas is a shithead. Tell the crowd they've been over-ruled.
- 6) The men are very pleased that you've decided to take this edge-of-the-world thing seriously, Mr Columbus, and have agreed to go back.
- 7) By George, they're right – why should we tax their tea?
- 8) What a shame about that nice Duke Ferdinand - still, it's hardly worth fighting over.
- 9) No, Goebbels, I don't want Czechoslovakia - we've got more than enough land.
- 10) Vietnam? Tough - this president don't play dominoes.

John Herbert Marr
Hundon, UK

Add your own favourite line to this list: just email it to: [john.marr \[at\] 2from.com](mailto:john.marr@2from.com)